What the Client had to say?

“Our idea was to convert current APEX menus into new menus, change the look & feel of our webpages and build the data model for the required reports.

For this approach to succeed you need smart people that can think a few steps ahead, come up with ideas and alternatives and are able to communicate in a clear and concise manner. The people of iWareLogic have shown that they can fully cope with this concept.

Without exception, every representative from the iWareLogics' APEX tech team has been exceptional. It's a pleasure to call and talk to any one of them. That is very important!”
